It's just a little holiday called the Fourth of July. Like most other networks, Paramount Network knows that most of us will be spending Wednesday preparing cookouts, attending local fireworks shows, or lounging by the pool. Tried-and-true Yellowstone fans, however, say that the network is this bad; In fact, they hung up their burgers, pool floats and sparklers for another wild hour at the Dutton family farm. After the channel broke the news of the third episode of Season 2, fans on Twitter were not happy (to say the least). This content is imported from Twitter. It makes sense that fans are nervous: Season 2 has just begun, and with the latest episode left viewers with a must-be-answer-ASAP question: Which John Dutton kids - Kayce, Beth, and Jamie - are he the most loyal? In the season two episode, we got a deeper look at the insanely complicated Dutton family in another intense Beth vs Kayce debate (Um, haven't we forgotten about Jamie?). At one point, Beth even get sensitive and tell Kayce she's going to give him the farm when John dies. Some fans say this means the Dutton family is prepared, but we have to wait two very long weeks to find out if that's the case. While you wait to return to the Yellowstone ranch, you have two options: You can go back and watch all your favorite episodes of the show for the first two seasons on amazon or paramount network's website. You can take this two-week break as an open invitation to celebrate America's birthday by spoiling in all the hotdogs, festive cocktails, and red, white and blue desserts. That doesn't sound so bad, does it? This content was created and maintained by a third party and imported to this page to help users enter their email addresses. For more information about this and similar content, piano.io Photo: shutterstock.comCast iron, properly cared for, can last at least one lifetime in the kitchen. Aside from cleaning the pan or pan after each use, seasoning cast iron ranks as the most important step you can take is maintaining these types of pots. Seasoning is a simple process that leaves a natural nonstick coating, one that makes cooking cast iron not only more enjoyable, but also more convenient. How do you season the cast iron? Continue reading to learn the steps! Tools & MaterialsSTEP 1A To get started, preheat the oven to 350 degrees Fahrenheit before washing the cast iron thoroughly. Use a combination of warm water and dishwashing detergent to eliminate residues accumulated over time. Once done, rinse with water and dry the pan or pan with a soft cloth. In the future, do not use dishwashing detergent when cleaning cast iron, as soap reduces the effect of seasoning. After use, simply rinse the cast iron with water and wipe it with a toa dish torzel. Photo: shutterstock.comSTEP 2Next, choose an oil to use for seasoning. Some experts say that refined flaxseed oil does the best job. It's far from the cheapest option, though. Crisco or fat well but really all vegetable oil will do, as long as the smoke points to the temperature at which you start smoking- above normal cooking temperature. Above all, make sure not to use oil that boasts a strong taste. STEP 3 Pour it into the oil of your choice, spread it evenly around it to evenly wrap the pan or pan. For best results, rub the selected oil with a cloth or paper towel. Cover every square inch of the cooking surface. STEP 4 Place the cast iron upside down in the preheated oven and place it on the baking stand with a piece of aluminum foil underneath. The goal here is to heat the pan or pan until the oil has reached the smoke point. Then and only then there is a chemical reaction that results in the desired non-stick coating. Different oils have different smoke points. To make flaxseed oil for the smoke point, turn the oven to the maximum heat seat. If you use vegetable oil, keep it at 350 degrees. Bake the cast iron for about an hour, then turn off the heat and allow the metal to cool completely before removing. More tips Finally, the cast iron should be seasoned again. To put it down as long as possible, remember not to use dish soap while cleaning the dish. Simply rinse with water, wipe with a soft cloth, not a scouring pad. Add a little salt scouring force if necessary. When the cast iron surface gets dull and sticky, you'll know that the time of the season has come again. Again.
